2.5 The Lipan Apache

4th Grade Social Studies · Video: Chapter 5: The Lipan Apache Tribe (Statewide Outreach Center)

Name: _____ Date: _____

Watch the video and fill in the blanks as you go.

Life on the Plains

The Lipan Apache lived in the _____ culture region, an area we now call the Great Plains.

The Great Plains were large areas of land covered with _____.

Animals such as buffalo, deer, elk, wild turkeys, and prairie chickens ate the grasses.

The Lipan Apache were great _____ who traveled the plains.

They hunted many animals, but especially the _____.

Homes on the Move

Some Lipan Apache lived in round, _____ huts made from small branches and covered with brush.

When it was cold, the huts were also covered with buffalo _____.

These huts were called _____.

The Lipan Apache were _____ and followed the buffalo herds in the spring and the fall.

Other Lipan Apache lived in light but sturdy _____ that were easy to put up, take apart, and carry.

A tipi frame was made by tying together long _____ and wrapping them with buffalo hides.

The tipi door always faced the _____, toward the rising sun.

Hunting and Gathering

The Lipan Apache were skillful _____, and they also grew some crops.

Lipan men did almost all of the hunting.

Hunting buffalo was most important because it was their main food source.

Lipan women knew which _____ were good for eating.

They gathered foods such as cactus, wild onions, grapes, and _____.

Lipan women also took care of small _____ of corn, squash, beans, and pumpkins.

Families and Leaders

Several families lived close together and traveled together in groups called _____.

The most respected man in a band served as the _____.

The chief organized large activities like buffalo hunts and moving the _____.

A head _____, usually the chief's wife, was in charge when the men were gone.

Vocabulary

Word	Meaning
nomadic	moving from place to place instead of staying in one spot
wickiup	a round, dome-shaped hut made of branches and brush
tipi	a cone-shaped home of long poles wrapped in buffalo hides
band	a group of families who live and travel together

Key Takeaways

• The Lipan Apache were nomadic hunters on the plains who depended on the buffalo.

• They lived in wickiups and tipis that they could leave behind or carry.

• The Lipan Apache Tribe of Texas still exists today.